The adventures of Risky B. Liable

Life insurance is to help those loved ones you leave behind, not only kids but your entire family. An unfortunate death could burden your family with your unpaid debt and/or your funeral expenses.

Nearly a third of US households have no life insurance, and many who do don't have enough coverage, or they have it through their workplace, making these last ones vulnerable to the volatile job marketplace.

There are several types of life insurance that can be tailored to your needs, some of them very affordable. So the question is not whether to have it or not, but rather which one is the appropriate for you and your loved ones.
